If I were granted a chance to make a wish to help others, my wish would be to help the students living in distant areas to acquire better chances to education.

Recently, I have learned that not every student is as lucky as I. Those children living in distant regions can't easily gain the latest information because their schools are lack of money to set up educational equipment, or maybe they have to help their parents to work in fields to support their families. Those children are poor but they are eager to be educated. I firmly believe that education is the only way to escape from poverty, so I wish that every children can get the same opportunities of education. This is the main reason why I make this wish.

Once my wish comes true, there will be more children being educated. This will be a good phenomenon, because this can shorten the distinction between cities and remote areas. More and more children will leave their hometown to work in cities, therefore changing the situation of poverty. Education gives hope to them, may my wish can soon be realized one day, and benefit all children.
