Dear Grandma,

I have received the graduation gift that you sent me, and I am flabbergasted by it. I can't believe that you bought me an iPhone 6! There are no words whatsoever that can describe just how much I love it. I really appreciate this gift of yours, in that I have always craved for an iPhone, but the price is the one thing that kept making me having second thoughts. Despite the fact that I have been head over heels in love with iPhones, its convenience is the sole reason why I have been yearning for one. Not only is it attractive on the outside, but it also has a wide range of useful functions. I can make a video call whilst scrolling down a web page. Doesn't it sound incredible?

With an eye to showing my gratitude for you, I hereby invite you to come take part in my high school commencement. It will take place at 9 in the morning on June 3 in the auditorium in my school. Don't freak out if you don't have a clue where that is. I have enclosed a map in this letter for you. If you happen to be available that day, do come join me. On the contrary, if you are occupied, I can totally understand if you don't show up. Lastly, whether you will come or not, I am still looking forward to it.

Sincerely,

Jamie
