A Helpful wish

If I could make a wish, I would have made my wish for the poor. They are people who sometimes don't have adequate food to eat, thick sweater to wear in winter, and the ability to fulfill their basic needs. However, we are all living on this beautiful earth and we are all made by the hands of God. So how dare we pass them by laughing at them instead of supporting and giving them our hands? In fact, people are made to be equal. We live a better life than they do is mainly because our parents provide the best to us. On the contrary, the poor live a miserable life is basically due to their lack of wealthy background. They struggle to survive in this dynamic world where people are indifferent to them. They strive to make their life better but it sometimes turns out to be in vain.

Therefore, I'd like to make a wish for them. My wish is ^{that} people around the world could be friendly to them so that they won't consider themselves as the lower classes and they won't think of this world as a cruel one. Once we get rid of the discrimination toward them, the world will definitely become more wonderful for everyone. As the saying goes, "people are fundamentally good." If we can care about them from the bottom of our hearts, they will absolutely feel it, and they may have the power to be positive toward the world.

After all, this helpful wish is what they deserve.
